Classic Marble Represents UK for Innovation Awards At BEX 2008, Valencia

With over 25 years of experience in the design and manufacture of resin stone shower trays, Classic Marble has been short listed for the UK Trade & Investment award for Innovation in recognition of its ground-breaking product, Classi-Seal.

As one of only four nominees selected from the UK, Classic Marble has been chosen to attend BEX 2008 with UKTI, representing the best of UK Innovation. The Building Exchange Innovation Competition held in Valencia on 22nd- 25th June 2008, is designed to encourage innovation within the built environment and assist manufacturing and professional service companies with new solutions to market their ideas to worldwide decision makers and business leaders in this sector.

The already multi-award winning Classi-Seal, is a flexible, self adhesive waterproof upstand which is used around baths and shower trays. It is a simple and unique system that completely eliminates the potential for water leakage and subsequent costly repairs caused by shrinkage and settlement. The materials elasticity allows for movement of 15mm, whilst guaranteeing a watertight seal. Classi-Seal is already revolutionising the bathroom installation process as it is quick and extremely easy to fit as well as being robust and cost effective. Classic Marble's range also includes a collection of Polymarble wall panels and a vast range of the highest quality shower trays including contemporary low level trays. Classic Marble is at the very forefront of bathroom design and installation with its innovative product portfolio and commitment to providing long lasting quality.
